Mayor Robertson,

I am writing to inquire about your N.D.P. campaign funding and specifically, whether $49,172 may have originated from the Endswell Foundation, a registered charity affiliated with Tides Canada.

On Monday morning, I will call Ms. Dana Bertrand at 10:00 in order to request an appointment to speak with you about this. You or your staff may reach me anytime at 604.618.8110.

Before I begin, I would like to let you know that I read your comment in The Straight to the effect that the front-page story in the National Post is part of a campaign to "besmirch" Tides Canada. You have my word that I am not part of any such campaign nor am I even aware of any such campaign. I have no affiliation whatsoever with the fish farming industry nor with any other industry. I am writing to you as a member of the public. My main concern is what appears to me to be the influx of huge amounts of foreign funding - and the influence that goes along with that. I am concerned that this hasn't exactly been out in the open.

As you know from my open letter and other letters since July, I have written to you to inquire as to whether $153,783 of your Vision Vancouver campaign funding may have originated from Endswell. The immediate sources of that funding are Strategic Communications ($83,314) and Renewal Partners ($70,469). Strategic Communications says at its web-site that it is a "partner" of Renewal Partners.

As you know, I am concerned as to how $11.4 million may have been spent since 2003 while the Endswell Foundation was simply making 99 percent of its grants to Tides Canada. That $11.4 million includes $1.9 million that Endswell paid to staff at Renewal Partners. The $11.4 million also includes $1.2 million that was paid by the charity to "Interdependent Investments Ltd.," of which the officers are listed as Joel Solomon and Martha Burton, the treasurer of Vision Vancouver.

Recently, I took a look at the database of Elections B.C. and was surprised to see that not only Strategic Communications contributed $83,314 to Vision Vancouver, Strategic Communications also contributed $33,890 to the NDP. That's a total of $117,204. For a small company, that seems like a lot of money.

From the disclosure statements that you filed in 2005, and re-filed in 2007, it seems to me that a large part of the funding that Strategic Communications contributed to the NDP may have gone specifically to your MLA campaign in the Vancouver Fairview riding.

If I have read your campaign finance disclosure statements correctly, it seems to me that your campaign reported a total income of $138,528. Of that, according to my analysis, at least $72,438 was from sources who are affiliated in various ways with Tides Canada and/or Tides USA. Including $10,000 from yourself and your wife, Amy, that accounts for 40 percent of your NDP campaign finance. Of that, the total that came from two P.R. companies (Strategic Communications & Convergence Communications) that are closely affiliated with Tides Canada, was $49,172. Is this correct?

Renewal Partners	$680	$680
Mark Deutschmann	$259	$259
	Sub-Total:	$72,439
	All other sources:	$66,089
	TOTAL:	$138,528

The reason that I have included you and your wife as affiliates of Tides is because from 2000 to 2005, your wife was the president of the Linnaea Farm Society (on Cortes Island) which has been funded by both Tides Canada (every year since 2003, that's as far back as on-line records go) and Tides U.S.A. According to your profile that was posted at the web-site of Tides Canada, you also worked with the Linnaea Farm Society from 2002 to 2004.

The $72,438, includes:

- $28,529 from Strategic Communications.
- $20,641 from Convergence Communications. U.S. tax returns indicate that Tides Canada paid $204,036 to Convergence Communications in 2003 and 2005. (The information about how much Tides Canada paid to its highest five-paid contractors is not included in the publicly available tax return for 2004). The B.C. company summary for Convergence Communications indicates that its sole officer is Michael Magee, your Chief of Staff. I note that he was a director of Tides Canada from 2002 to 2007.
- $6,000 from Carol Newell. When Ms. Newell was awarded the Order of Canada for having "placed" $60 million, Tides Canada reported that she is the "founder" of Tides Canada. U.S. tax returns show that since 2004, Ms. Newell has contributed $1.1 million to the Endswell Foundation. To my surprise, the 2009 tax return for the Endswell Foundation reports that a person by the name of Carol Newell was paid $49,921 as "secretary." That same year, Carol Newell contributed $73,206, U.S. tax returns say.
- $6,327 from Andrew Beath. Mr. Beath is said to be the "founder" of the Earthways Foundation which has received a small amount of funding from Tides U.S.A.
- $680 from Renewal Partners
- $259 from Mark Deutschmann, the CEO of Village Real Estate of Nashville Tennessee, a company in which Renewal Partners has "invested." U.S. tax returns say that Joel Solomon has 10 percent ownership in Village Real Estate.

Having taken a look at your disclosure statement for 2005, I would like to ask several questions:

- A company named "Poser Productions" is reported as having made a campaign finance contribution of $4,614.60. Which company is that? Is that Poser Lounge Productions? I couldn't find any information about a company by the name of "Poser Productions."
- Three contributions for a total of $10,500 (or $11,500, its hard to read the hand-writing) were made from the Vancouver Fairview Constituency Association. Where did those funds originate? Did any of those funds originate from Strategic Communications?

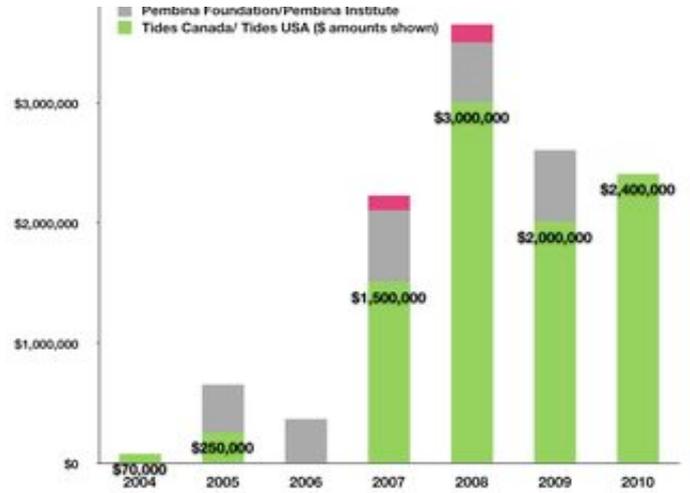

I would also like to ask several related questions:

1) Tides Canada's "Strategic Plan to Address Oil & Gas Development in B.C."

In 2004, the California-based William & Flora Hewlett Foundation paid Tides Canada $70,000 to develop a "strategic plan" to address oil and gas development in British Columbia. At the time, you were a director of Tides Canada. Since then, the Hewlett Foundation has granted a further $12 Million to Tides Canada for various projects to "address" the oil and gas industry in Canada. Of that, $9.2 million went specifically to Tides Canada/Tides U.S. (shown in the figure to the right). My questions are:

- What did Tides Canada's "strategic plan" involve, back in 2004?
- Did that "strategic plan" involve thwarting oil exports to Asia by blocking oil tanker traffic on the B.C. coast - all in the name of marine conservation?
- Did that U.S.-funded plan involve Tides Canada/Tides USA funding a large number of organizations - as reported recently in the Financial Post and the Vancouver Sun - to campaign against Alberta oil?
- Did that "strategic plan" involve making HUGE payments to First Nations, such as the $27.3 Million that Tides Canada quietly paid to two, small First Nations, in 2008?
- Did that "strategic plan" involve supporting a particular political party, or a particular politician?

2) F.D. Element, The Great Bear Rainforest & the Boreal Forest Initiative

Recently, I read Bob Mackin's reporting that taxpayers money has been used to pay FD Element to do your P.R. in New York. F.D. Element works for a number of clients, including Coca-Cola, Burger King, and the David Suzuki Foundation. F.D. Element also does P.R. for the Great Bear Rainforest Initiative and for the Boreal Forest Initiative. As part of the $82 million that the Hewlett foundation and the Packard foundation have spent in British Columbia and Alberta, these two U.S. foundations have spent more than $41 million specifically on these two initiatives (the Great Bear Rainforest and the Boreal Forest Initiative) which date back to your time at Tides Canada. Another U.S. foundation, the Pew Charitable Trusts kicked in at least $44 million for the Boreal Forest Initiative.

My questions are:

- Of all the places in the world, why are these U.S. foundations spending so much in Canada?

- Are these initiatives exclusively to protect the environment? Are these initiatives also partially to block oil exports to Asia - all in the name of marine conservation?
- Did that "strategic plan" involve making HUGE payments to First Nations along the B.C. coast - like the $27.3 million that Tides Canada quietly paid to the Coast Opportunity Fund in 2008 - in a single grant?
- Did that "strategic plan" involve the Hewlett foundation massively ramping up its payments to Tides Canada - to the tune of nearly $9 million specifically for projects to "reform" the oil and gas industry in Canada?
- When FD Element does P.R. for you, is that strictly to promote Vancouver - or is this P.R. work also sort of 'part-and-parcel' of these U.S.-funded "conservation" initiatives?

3) Three Anonymous Grants to Tides U.S.A. for $72 Million

- In 2001 and 2002, Tides U.S.A. received three large contributions for a total of $72 million. Since then, the publicly available version of the U.S. tax returns of the Tides Foundation no longer include the "Schedule B" which discloses large contributions. Given your obvious connections to Tides Canada and Tides U.S.A., could you encourage the Tides Foundation to disclose the origin of large contributions such as these?

4) Joel Solomon's "Creating Conditions" Over Nearly 20 Years

- In May of this year, Joel Solomon told the Huffington Post, "Most recently, we've been working with others on Vision Vancouver, a new political party. Mayor Gregor Robertson had a landslide victory - just days after Obama's win - on a progressive platform: greenest city in the world, end homelessness, a creative and entrepreneurial economy. The election of Mayor Robertson is the result of creating conditions where these things could take hold. Nearly 20 years of moving in a purposeful direction." My question is this: What exactly did Tides Canada do in terms of "creating conditions" over nearly 20 years?

5) City of Vancouver Contracts Awarded to Vision Vancouver Campaign Funders

I noticed recently that the City of Vancouver is listed as a client of Communicopia, a P.R. company that contributed $17,880 in campaign finance to Vision Vancouver. The logo of the City of Vancouver is on the home-page of the web-site of this company. U.S. tax returns show that Communicopia has been paid at least $12,000 by Tides Canada (through the Endswell Foundation), and has also been funded by Renewal Partners. What is your policy with regards to granting contracts to P.R. companies that are funded by Tides Canada - and support your particular political party?

Sincerely,

Vivian Krause
