IABC's Code of Ethics are pretty clear . There is little you can argue with here. The code addresses the importance of honesty, accuracy, sensitivity, citing sources, accepting gifts and payments, and confidentiality. A quick review would raise a number of questions if applied to Vivian Krause's data and conclusions on the subject of environmental groups. I won't outline them here one-by-one because others (including Markham Hislop and Sandy Garossino) have covered this territory quite thoroughly.
